

Battle Scarred Tanks in Victory Loan Drive

Twelve battle scarred tanks, dented and battered by incessant German barrage and machine gun fire on the Western front, will assist in the Victory Loan drive in the Tenth Federal Reserve District. They will be manned by members of the tank corps, who have seen active service in France, and the 37 millimeter guns which are mounted on the tanks will bark forth an invitation to citizens of this district to purchase notes, as tanks make their way through the country. The tanks were overhauled and are being sent out into the states of the district in eleven special trains. The tanks are six-ton machines and were used almost exclusively on the western front at the time the armistice was signed. They proved much more efficient than the heavier tanks. The machines saw active service against the boche and their dented sides and battered treads tell a mute story of German fire which failed of its mission in penetrating the armored shell of the machines.

A New Corn Pest.

The corn crop of the United States is threatened. Dr. L. C. Howard, of the bureau of entomology of the U. S. agriculture department, is authority for the statement that the European corn borer, a comparative new parasite introduced into this country from foreign shipments, has obtained a strong foothold in New England and New York, and reports great damage has already been done.

"If this borer reaches the corn fields of the West," Mr. Howard says, "I don't see what is going to save them, and there seems to be slight hope of our being able to eradicate the pest."

During spring house cleaning, household moths, carpet beetles, cock- roaches, ants, centipeds, book lice, etc., are being brought to light. In mattresses, piles of clothing in closets and chests, under carpets, in the store room and kitchen, in fact, in any un- disturbed place they may be found.

Now is the time to eliminate them. To do this one must know the habits of the insects and must be thorough and persistent in all eradication mea- sures.

Remember that all these insects dis- like light; particularly sunlight. Try to avoid having dark, poorly ventila- ted and seldom disturbed nooks and corners in the house as these are all haunts of insects. Fill all cracks in the walls and floors with plaster, putty, or other like substances. Beat carpets and mattresses, then spray with benzine, and air for several hours. Wipe up the woodwork and floors with a cloth, rung from water to which kerosene has been added. Creosote and carbolic acid are also objectionable to these insects.

If gases are used to destroy them be very careful that the properties of the gases are understood as some are extremely poisonous while others are destructive to metals and fabrics.

The Fly, Its Dangers, and How to Destroy It.

The fly is one of the greatest dis- ease carriers of the world. It carries many diseases, such as smallpox, mea- les, influenza and typhoid fever.

It can be prevented from getting into our homes and on to our food. This may be done by destroying its breeding places. The breeding places are:

1. Manure piles.

2. In garbage from the house.

3. All land around straw stacks, and cow, horse and hog lots.

4. All places where the fly feeds.

KEEP THE FLY OUT.

1. By swatting it.

2. By putting fly traps out around the buildings. All traps should be baited with something which the fly likes.

The fly passes through four stages. 1.—The egg. 2.—The maggot. 3.—The pupa. 4.—The full grown fly.

It is hungry when it first starts out into the world and if we have all the places where it feeds, cleaned up, we may have a chance to kill it before it does much damage.

If we cannot get rid of the garbage and manure before spring comes, pour kerosene or some other disagreeable substance over it, and the fly is not liable to feed in the places where the kerosene is put. The fly may easily carry germs, for its legs are covered with small hairs on which the germs gather, and in this way are carried to our food. The fly also likes to eat clean food as well as filth and waste from a sick room or hospital.
